

Kathy uses her experience and global relationships to deliver customized media relations, media outreach, and a variety of training.

She has worked as an adjunct professor, helped professionals and groups strengthen their speech and presentation skills, created original web content for new web sites, and created Web site branding and communications strategies for companies and non-profits, such as the Children's Defense Fund's Southern Regional Office.

Kathy has dedicated most of her life to serving others and has volunteered with organizations, such as, Big Brothers, Big Sisters, schools, non-profit boards of directors, and sororities and fraternities. Kathy has experience speaking, moderating, and serving on panels before executives, trade organizations, and many other groups and businesses.