

The best time to craft a media crisis plan is before an emergency. Kathy has experience handling unflattering publicity and can deliver a rapid response when your brand or business is under fire or under a microscope. Kathy draws on her experience as an investigative reporter to help you prepare for and weather the storm when the media calls.